Amsterdam, The Netherlands; 18th March 2014 – AerData, the provider of software and services for the aviation industry announces that Waypoint Leasing, a leading global helicopter leasing company, has chosen AerData to support its leasing and records management as it grows its customer base, takes delivery of new aircraft and expands its business.

CMS (Corporate Management System) is the leading lease and asset management solution used by the majority of the world's aircraft, helicopter and engine leasing organizations.

STREAM (Secure Technical Records for Electronic Asset Management) is the industry's foremost web-based solution used by some of the world's largest airlines, lessors and MROs to manage technical records.

Commenting on the announcement, Mark Nieuwendijk, Managing Director of AerData, said, "Waypoint is our ideal partner – it is a pioneer in the helicopter leasing industry, dedicated to forming long-term partnerships with operators and sees the value of our services. We are delighted they have chosen two of our core systems, CMS and STREAM, to support their ongoing operations and growth of their business."

David Gorsky, Vice President Operations and Technical, Waypoint Leasing, said, "As a large helicopter leasing company with customers and aircraft all around the world, we regularly invest in infrastructure systems that support our activities and the continuing growth of our business. The powerful combination of both of AerData's solutions, already proven with major lessors and airlines, met our rigorous requirements. We look forward to building our relationship with AerData and leveraging their expertise for the benefit of our customers."
